

Still Time to Plan a Last-Minute Beach Break this Summer on England's Coast

L-R: Puffin on Bempton Cliffs, The Jurassic Coast, Saltburn-by-the-Sea

17 July 2026: If you thought you'd left it too late for a coastal staycation this summer holiday, England's Coast, the coastal booking and inspiration tool, is here to tell you there's still time to grab a beach break.

From watersports, walking and wildlife watching, to food festivals, regattas and live music across the coast, plan your summer staycation with these ideas from England's Coast:

Foodie safaris and viticulture in Dorset

The Dorset coast is awash with award-winning dining destinations, fresh-off-the-boat seafood eateries, vibrant food festivals and vineyards so why not take a food-and-wine-inspired tour through Dorset on your summer break?

- Catch restaurant in Weymouth, sitting on the quayside in the Old Fish Market, has been lauded by reviewers, and diners can buy fresh fish downstairs before heading upstairs for a unique sea-to-plate experience featuring adventurous dishes such as glazed octopus or Portland Brown Crab and black sea bream with kale flower sprouts. Affordable seafront dining options aplenty include The Noisy Lobster at Avon Beach, Christchurch, Rockfish in Poole, Weymouth and Lyme Regis, BBQ cruises on Coastal Cruises Poole and Key West Bar and Grill on Bournemouth Pier for wrap-around sea views.
- Annual foodie events include the Great Dorset Chilli Festival (2-3 Aug.) featuring artisan chilli products, spicy street food, chilli eating competitions, live music, local beers and a chance to try the famous Dorset Naga! The Seafood & Sounds event (13-14 Sept.) is expected to bring over 8,000 visitors to Poole Quay and Old Town for live music, local produce, craft stalls and a daily 'Fisherman's Market' showcasing fresh catch and local seafood delicacies.
- The Dorset coast is also home to several world-class vineyards including the Langham Wine Estate, which offers guided tours among the vines, delicious dining at Smiths Kitchen and Fizz Friday events. Or take an in-depth tour at Bride Valley Vineyards, nestled in the hills a short drive from the Jurassic Coast, with a walk around the 10-hectare site followed by a visit to the tasting tent to sample the signature still and sparkling wines against a stunning backdrop.
- And for those balmy summer evenings, the Dorset skies will be ablaze with spectacular free firework displays throughout the summer holidays on Thursdays at Poole Quay, on Fridays from Bournemouth Pier, Mondays at Weymouth Beach, at Swanage Carnival (26 July to 2 August) and much more, check out where to go here.

Where to stay: Ideally located between Weymouth, Dorchester and Durdle Door, Warmwell Holiday Park boasts an array of family facilities including an indoor pool with wave machine, crazy golf, 10-pin bowling and woodland walks.
